From here, you can change your Privacy settings in 3 different ways:

- Who can see my stuff?
- Who can contact me?
- Who can look me up?

Who can look me up?	Who can look you up using the email address you provided?	Friends

If you have selected Public under 'Who can see your future posts?' your status updates etc can be seen by anyone. Even if they aren't a friend.

You can 'Limit past posts' so that older posts can be hard to find. This is handy if you posted anything embarrassing or inappropriate in the past couple of years.

There are 2 options for filtering what can be sent to your Inbox – either Strict Filtering (only people you are friends with on facebook can message your inbox) or Basic Filtering (anyone on facebook can send you a message).

If you select Strict Filtering, messages sent by anyone who isn't your facebook friend go directly to a folder called 'Other', which will appear next to your Inbox. You don't get Notification if a message goes into 'Other'.
